RUNS

Run 1740: 20.12.23 The Old Bank, Keynsham. Hare: TFC

This is the night that Damp Spot experienced a horn for the first time – ever so excited she was (& still is). Perky brought his own to explain to newcomers the tradition, but Spider was too uncouth and set the run off before the explanation was given. Anyhow, the horn was blown several times to keep the tradition alive; much to the pleasure of Damp Spot.

A Tale of Two Trails, 28.12.23

Run 1741 A: The Curfew, Bath, to North Road. Hare – Snail's Nuts, led by Patrick.

Run 1741 B: North Road to The Curfew, Bath. Hare – L'Escargot, led by Snail's Nuts.

A confusing run to most there, including Snail's Nuts & L'Escargot. Often the actual trail location was advised by the Hounds. Anyway, a nice run with not too much shiggy and nicely timed.

This evening included a Hash Naming of a true Hound: Peter. Henceforth to be called "Trip Hazard", in remembrance of directing Clonker to clash with a lamp post.

Run 1742: 3.1.24, Victoria Pub & Kitchen. Upper Bristol Rd. Bath Hares: Damp Spot & Butt Muncher Could not resist including this run as it MAY be the longest late return of a Hasher(s): Shirgar & Red Rum – 45 mins late completing the run (with only a 5 min delay at the start). The main other one I can remember is by Puki Jungit at the Country Inn, Neston. The rare time we sent out a search party. 1.5 hrs late if my memory serves me well. Not actually late in completing the run, but due to an attempt to take an extreme short-cut.

The other comment about this run was the lack of vetting by the Hares of runners calling skills. Several were appalling. Other than that, an excellent first-time run set.

HASH Handles

Continuing with the intriguing reasons behind (careful of that word now) Hash names: >>>>>>>>

Well, Christmas eve in the Star was a revelation, even for a well-worn Edit Hare. For the 2 years or so from the formation of the K&A and up to Perky joining, apparently: Hashers chose their own handles. Hence, the likes of Gazza, chose his name because he was in love with the famous (for some) footballer of that name. Also "Adonis" because he thought ???? Others of that period I do not know of.

Then, for the following 28, or so, years the name was agreed at a "group" meeting. As, with Pinky and myself.

Now, it seems we have names decided upon by individuals.

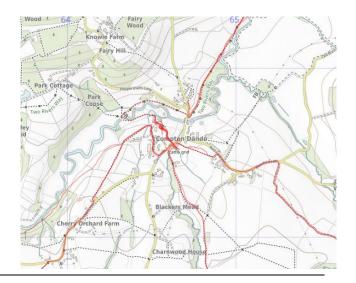

Perhaps we should revert to self-naming???

Public Enemy: chosen because she worked for Her Majesty's Revenue & Customs.

Damp Spot: Named by Bristol Hash because her surname is MacBeth – leading to link with Shakespeare's Lady MacBeth, unable to remove a spot of blood from the murdered King Duncan from her hand. Cursing she said "out damned spot!".

Footpath use density

I use a web site for OS information, etc. They have started to produce map data based on the routes of members GPS information. I don't know how far back the data goes or what proportion of members send in their GPS data. Anyway, here is the map showing fp use density for Compton Dando.
