

-- Hash Roles/Responsibilities --

Ever wondered what all those weird titles like Grand Mattress, Religious Advisor, Beer Meister, really mean? Who ARE these people and what do they do? Here's your check list:

Beer Meister:	Every hashers' best friend. Buys, stores, quality controls and transports beer and hash supplies. Wherever the pack goes, the beer wagon is sure to follow!
Grand Mattress:	The voice of authority in this otherwise unruly pack. Responsible for calling and chairing mis-management committee meetings, presenting hash awards, central contact point for other hashes worldwide.
Hare:	Sets the trail, sends flash details to the trail master/mistress, coordinates beer-stop and organizes ON-ON.
Hash Cash:	Maintains hash financial records. Deposits and withdraws money from the Hash account as appropriate. Distributes hash funds for major events.
Hash Flash:	Collects photographic evidence at major hash events (including namings) and pack mug-shots. Compiles a library of embarrassing photos suitable for posting on the Web.
Hash Geek:	Takes care of the hash web site and maintains e-mailing lists. Issues all trail flashes and announces upcoming world-wide hash events.
Hash Habber Dasher:	Finds new ideas for essential hash-ware including design of t-shirts and coordinates printing and pricing.
Hash Scribe:	Compiles witty write-ups of hash events for the hash archives.
Hash Tax:	Collects run fees from the pack, maintains spreadsheets of weekly attendees and announces hash anniversaries.
Hound:	Simple job really: Show up, pay up and drink up.
Religious Advisor:	Responsible for the weather and post-run circle; decrees appropriate drinking punishments for hash crimes and performs naming ceremonies.
Song Meister:	Leads the pack in song at hash-holds, post-run circles and major hash events.
Trail Master/Mistress:	Monthly planning of hash trails. Hiring and firing of hares and compilation of monthly trail flashes. Advises new hares on the art of laying a hash trail.
Virgin:	First time hasher.
